Loyalty to the Government.

Are the people of North Carolina loyal? Is their submission real or is it feigned? Are they entitled to the confidence and protection of the government, or should they still be treated as objects of suspicion or distrust? These are serious and important questions, and a truthful and proper answer should be given to them, both to satisfy the government itself, and to silence the unfounded and unkind suspicions which have been excited both in the minds of the authorities in the State, as well as the authorities at Washington, by designing men who claim to be natives of the State. For there is no fact more easily proven, than that whatever injurious prejudices now exist in the minds of the authorities in any of its departments, derogatory to North Carolina or her people, have been excited, intensified, and fixed designedly by a class of men among us, prompted by selfish or partizan motives, to secure an object, reckless of the true interests of the State.

Loyalty to the government on the part of the governed, consists in respect for its authority, obedience to its laws and a purpose to the extent of their ability to maintain and support it. These proofs of loyalty will be exhibited, whether the government, for the "general welfare" exercises its jurisdiction for the time being, by its civil or military power. Now, if these positions be correct, we might even at this stage of the argument, triumphantly appeal to the history of our people since the day of Gen. Johnson's surrender, in refutation of the charge of disloyalty, either against our people or against the State as an organization.

But it will be objected, "you are submissive only by compulsion—that the same feelings which prompted the rebellion still rankle in your bosoms—that the fires of rebellion are only pent up ready to break forth again." These uncharitable suspicions did not originate spontaneously in the bosoms of those exercising military authority in the State or at Washington.—They were excited and are kept alive by interested politicians and their pimps among us, whose only hope of promotion and profit, can be secured by the defamation of our people, the obliteration or subjugation of their manhood, and their utter degradation.

If these feelings of hostility to the government really exist—even though they lurk in them or are latent, there must be some evidence, some proof of it; otherwise, the suspicion is uncharitable. Where is the evidence? We defy the proof.

Let us look at the facts. Was it ever known before, that a people who had maintained so fierce, so terrible and so honest a struggle for independence, of a government, believed by the insurgents to be up to the day of the surrender, vindictive, tyrannical and implacable beyond anything known in modern times, so readily and at once, to lay down their arms and so soon to return to and so anxiously to pursue the arts of peace? Does the history of the world present a spectacle equal to it, when 200,000 armed men, under such circumstances lay down their arms and quietly return to their homes so soon as permitted, and at once plunge into the whirl of business to recuperate their ruined fortunes?—Never before. And why? They were not cowards. They knew they might still, if simply bent upon ruin—if merely reckless and unprincipled, greatly damage and worry and injure the assailants. If the objects of the contest had not been hopelessly defeated, and if their hostility to the government was as intense as their enemies now charge upon them, would they have so quietly and so readily succumed without further struggle? The thing is incredible.

No. The Southern people and the people of this State especially, entered the contest believing that duty and interest and every thing dear to freemen demanded it. They hoped that the objects they sought were attainable; but when they discovered that the movement was a blunder—a false, a delusive and ruinous blunder—they were ready to abandon it forever. Without fully estimating the cost or for a moment calculating the crime or the consequences of revolt, yet impelled by what they felt at the time must be done or crouch as abject slaves at the foot of what they conceived to be unauthorised and unjust arbitrary power, they entered the contest. But when the fiery ordeal tested the folly and the madness of the revolt, they yielded not only to an invincible necessity, but to the conviction that the whole programme, was a failure, and one too weak and delusive ever to be repeated.

And are they not sincere in their desire for restoration to the confidence of the government? What proof is there to the contrary? What has the government demanded, that they have not promptly yielded? Does the government demand an oath of future fidelity? Have they not quietly submitted to it? Has it put them under military restraint and authority? Have they not respected and obeyed that authority? Was there ever less crime, less insubordination, less disobedience to what the people know to be law, in the same space in North Carolina?

But it is objected, you are impatient under military rule—you are too anxious to be rid of it. Why? Are we not Americans? Have we not the feelings and the impulses and the education of Americans? Where is the American who prefers military to civil authority? Are we not all lovers of law and order? Why do we desire civil rule? Is it for any other object, than simply that we may pursue our business—our industrial pursuits without intimidation and the restraints of bayonets? Certainly not.

But it is objected you have other aims—ulterior purposes which must affect the freedmen. We deny it. Where is the evidence of such a feeling or temper? The government has demanded the abolition of slavery. Have we not promptly agreed to it? But some of your people don't like it—they are crusty and complaining, and think hard of the government for freeing the slaves. Perhaps some do. Is it not surprising all are not so? Would you submit to such a privation—such an utter loss of all that you called property, with any better grace?

But there is no hostility to the freedmen—no settled hate—no purpose to wrong or to injure them. Cases of irritation and disagreement have occurred—instances of ill-treatment and cruelty may have occurred, but how is it with the great body of the people? Our people all feel that slavery is at an end forever. No effort can ever be made for its restoration. They will acquiesce readily not only in their perpetual freedom, but in the best method of providing for their future good. The charge or the intimation that our people have ulterior designs against their freedom or their degradation, is unfounded. All sensible men who look to the recuperation of the South, feel that the only hope of the South is in the restoration and regulation of labor, and in the improvement of the black race.

The government demanded the rescinding of all laws which in any way recognised the Confederacy or were in conflict with the constitution of the United States, and the utter extinction from our Constitution or statute books every thing which recognised secession. Have not these demands been cheerfully obeyed? We have heard of no advocate since the surrender, of the right of secession—no one who desired any trace of it to remain on our records. In our State Convention not one word was said in favor of secession—all were agreed that the secession ordinance should be declared null and void, but several wanted a change in the verbiage of the ordinance presented, to make it accord with fact and history, that all our people might heartily endorse it.

But it is objected, "your people intend to pay the State war debt, in defiance of the government." We deny positively and palpably, that any such idea or purpose exists. It is a mere electioneering trick." North Carolinians have maintained always their character for honesty. We claim to be honest people. We heartily detest repudiation in any form. In regard to the war debt of the State, it was due to our people. Widows and orphans and guardians, and trustees and agents had invested their all in new State bonds. Their confidence in the integrity of our people and State, was unbounded. They had but little confidence in any other investment, and hence they invested largely in this. Our people not knowing the purpose of the government in regard to the war debt of the States, were in doubt what to do. They knew their impoverished condition, their inability to pay, yet they loathed the idea of being written down repudiators. The State Convention till near its close was in the same position—hence it determined to defer any action whatever, until a later period. About the close of the Convention, the government made known its wishes, that the State war debt must be repudiated. The Convention immediately adopted the ordinance repudiating the debt. Our people regard this action as final. Mr. Worth, the successful Union candidate in the late gubernatorial contest, emphatically declares that it is a settled question, and that it would be acting in bad faith to the government ever to disturb it. He can never be a party to any attempt of that sort.

Again, it is objected, "you are disposed to array your State against the government." We deny it. Our people are doing what they can to co-operate with the government. Our people are devoted to the policy of President Johnson as far as they understand it. No name is so potent in North Carolina as Andrew Johnson's.

"Why then did not your people vote for Gov. Holden, the President's candidate, instead of Mr. Worth, the secession candidate?" The people of North Carolina did not know either that "Mr. Holden was President Johnson's candidate," nor that "Mr. Worth, was the secession candidate." Nor do they know it now. They understand that the government having allowed us the privilege of a free election for Governor, that it was to be a free choice of the loyal people of the State, and that by consequence the President had no choice. Such is the power of President Johnson's name in North Carolina, if he had announced that Gov. Holden was his choice—the people would have made no opposition and no choice. A large majority of the people of the State could not have been forced to vote for Gov. Holden, yet they would have acquiesced in his election.—Why? Was it because they were secessionists or opposed to the government? We deny it emphatically and defy proof to the contrary.—Was it because they were anti-Union in their feelings or had a spite at the North? We deny it. It was only because they are anti-Holden.

The objection to Gov. Holden is to himself and himself alone, as a political, public man. We state what we know and can establish, that the people of North Carolina, do lack confidence in the political integrity of W. W. Holden. Within the last quarter of a century, he has acted with every phase which the political parties have assumed, except the Know Nothings. He has abused or praised as the case may be, nearly every public man in the State. He taught the people secession and then turned against them—he advocated the war, and then turned against it. He is well known to be the most unpopular public man in North Carolina, because of his course as a politician. One half of the vote given him in the late election was secured to him for the reason that he was Provisional Governor, and because the voters were influenced by the stereotyped placard, "Vote for Holden and go in, or Worth and stay out," which was scattered over the State. We repeat, the late elections teach no other lesson than the unpopularity of Mr. Holden in North Carolina.

And what of Mr. Worth? The charge that Mr. Worth was the secession candidate or that those who were formerly secessionists warmly sympathised with him, is totally false. The reason why opposition was run to Gov. Holden was simply this: Those who are responsible for bringing out Mr. Worth, honestly believed that if Gov. Holden was run alone upon his own merits before the people, the vote in the State would be so meagre, so very inconsiderable, it would seriously damage the reputation of the State as to its Union proclivities. After it was determined on this ground to run opposition, their next determination was to select if possible, an undoubted Union man, and a better Union man than Gov. Holden. The lot fell upon Jonathan Worth, the son of a Quaker, a peace-loving, Union-loving man of undoubted political consistency, whose record at all times had been uniform and in whose integrity every one had implicit confidence. He was run by his friends only as a Union man, both in respect to his own merits and out of regard to the government.—Many who were formerly secessionists or war men, voted for Mr. Worth purely because of his consistency, and because of their opposition to Mr. Holden on account of his political course.—The polls show a gain for Mr. Holden in many of the former secession Counties and a falling off for Mr. Worth, while in the Union Counties where Mr. Worth was known, Mr. Holden fell off and Mr. Worth gained.

The foregoing facts are stated, in order to correct the false and injurious statements which have been made by Mr. Worth's opponents, and which seriously affect the people of the State abroad. We have not "set down aught in malice" towards any, and only regret that the defence of the State and truth, has compelled us to allude to Gov. Holden. We have simply stated facts, which we believe will be endorsed and sustained by three fourths of the intelligence and integrity of the State.

We observe that a large vote was polled in Georgia against the repudiation of the war debt. Notwithstanding President Johnson telegraphed that the debt must be repudiated, 117 members voted against it. There is more disloyalty in the South now than there was six months ago.—Standard.

We clip the above to express our disbelief in the groundless and false assertion made by the Standard. Our sources of information as to the sentiments of the Southern people, are as good as the Standard's, and we unhesitatingly pronounce the above remark as to the disloyalty of the Southern people, so far as our knowledge goes, a fabrication.

We believe the vote in the Georgia Convention was designed more to indicate their opposition to repudiation as a principle, than their hostility to the government. Our neighbors are mad and blue, and they care not a whit, for the reputation of the State or the South. They will get over their fit when they find they have brought injury upon their own heads and the South, and then they will perhaps see the evil of their course.

Atlantic Rail Road.

We call the attention of the managers of the Atlantic Rail Road to the constant complaints which we hear are made by shippers, in regard to the detention of their goods. We allude to it for the special benefit of the Road. We learn that a large number of merchants who have suffered by the detention of their goods, have determined to direct them hereafter by the way of Petersburg and Wilmington. We beg those concerned to prevent it by removing the difficulty as soon as possible. A Wilmington commission merchant remarked to us the other day, that the Wilmington forwarding merchants were delivering goods at Goldsboro' and Wilson in three days from New York, and at Raleigh in four days.

Official Vote for Governor.

In our table on yesterday the returns for Camden and Catawba for Governor were incorrectly printed. The figures for Mr. Worth and Gov. Holden from those Counties were reversed.

We have now official returns from thirty-seven Counties which give Mr. Worth a majority of 6165 votes.

The Congress.

The returns are still incomplete from the Congressional Districts. Messrs. Clark and Turner, are the only Congressmen known here to have been elected.

Baltimore---Rev. John Poisal.

This excellent and true gentleman passed through our city yesterday, on a tour to the South. His object is to bring Baltimore and the Southern States into closer business connections. The merchants are shrewd business men, and have shown their wisdom in selecting for this general interest, a gentleman whose character and whose antecedents are such that Southern men may fully and implicitly trust any representation he makes. While all the country is ours and men will trade where their pecuniary interests are best promoted, certainly if Baltimore offer us better inducements than any other, why should not our merchants readily renew their business relations with them? We commend Mr. Poisal and his increasingly useful mission most cordially. Recently the Southern trade has largely grown with Baltimore.

Interesting Interview between President Johnson and the Ladies of Baltimore in reference to Mr. Jefferson Davis.

A petition signed by fifteen thousand ladies of the city of Baltimore for the release of Mr. Jefferson Davis was presented to President Johnson some days ago, by a committee of the ladies headed by Mrs. Coleman, daughter of the late Judge Crittenden. At the Mansion the President treated them with great courtesy. Mrs. Coleman addressed him before reading the petition, in which she said, "they came to him as children to a father, able and willing to help." With his permission she then read the petition as follows:

"We, the undersigned, women of the city of Baltime respectfully and earnestly pray that your Excellency will be pleased to grant your pardon to Mr. Jefferson Davis, and restore him to his family and freedom. In approaching your Excellency with this petition, your memorialists obey not only the charitable impulses of our sex, but their profoundest convictions of humanity, patriotism and sound policy. They believe that no single measure could possibly contribute so much as the release of Mr. Davis to the perfect restoration of kindliness and peace throughout the land, and they are sure that none would be regarded elsewhere in the world as more conclusive evidence of the confidence of our Government and people in the harmonious and re-established unity of these States. Your memorialists would not venture to suggest even the noblest personal considerations to your Excellency in the performance of a public function, but they trust it will be regarded in no such light if they express the hope that your Excellency will be guided in your determination by the illustrious examples of those nations and those rulers, the record of whose power is written in the golden letters of magnanimity and mercy."

Mrs. Coleman then continued: You have our petition before you, and we beg to add a few remarks Mr. President. Almost every act of your administration has been marked by wisdom and moderation. Men's hearts failed them for fear at the time of the death of Mr. Lincoln, but day by day the clouds have been lifted, and we now see the silver lining clearly. One great act remains to be performed by you. Remember 'tis the keystone that makes the arch. All else that there is put, is nothing, till that comes to bind and shut. We ask the release of Mr. Davis; the unconditional and immediate release. As the representative of his party, he has lost all; you, as the representative of your party, have gained all. I believe him to be a great and good man. He was mistaken and has suffered.—He was one of the "sons of the morning," and, has fallen; now he is a poor old man, and in addition to all he has endured he must bear about with him always the bitter consciousness of defeat. A great mind like yours can appreciate that trial. Now in the evening of life—no, that is past, in the night of life—it must be dark night with him to the end—There is but one single solace left him—the living presence of his wife and children. His little children cry out in their destitution upon their father for bread. Oh! hear their young voices and be pitiful! In this, also, you will show wisdom and moderation and courage—to use a good American word, "pluck." Throw off the trammels of a narrow minded party and act at once, without Cabinet consultations, and irrespective of our gentle and genial Judge Advocate. Put the vexed question, which I know has cost you many an anxious and perplexed hour, of "What shall I do with Mr. Davis," forever at rest. It is a difficult thing to bring him rightly to trial; more difficult still to dispose of him afterwards. "Behold, I show you a more excellent way." Give us the permission to go now to his prison, bearers of your full pardon, and let him go quietly to his home. The "Southern Confederacy" is gone, the wave has closed over it. It was a rich argosy, but its treasures are buried. With your help, and by patience and skill, its precious things may again see the light, and grace and adorn our common country. As to Mr. Davis, you know it is not, never can be in his power to interfere in any way with the Government.

We have not in our petition, ventured to present personal considerations to your Excellency. I think, myself, however, that no man ought to be above them, and I acknowledge they weigh with me! I think they do with all those daughters of yours. We have an ambition to succeed in our mission of love and mercy. All fathers wish their children to be ambitious, and we know that we shall have a little niche in history if we obtain this great honor! We are all proud of you. We believe God raised you up, as he did Cyrus, for this great work, and that he fitted you for the task.—We know that you are wise and great, we believe that you are good. Prove it now by acceding to our prayer. Grant us a royal pardon, and that right royally. Send us away with melody in our hearts. Mr. President, do not, as any common place man might do, tell us to leave the petition and you will consider our cause. The time for consideration is past. "Act, act, in the living present, heart within and God overhead."

Mr. Johnson listened with marked attention and hesitated for some moments before he made reply. Finally he said: That he regretted more than he knew how to express, that he could not grant the petition, and that it would give him far more pleasure to accede to the request of the ladies present, than it would give them to have it granted. "If," added he, "it were simply a question, however, between man and man, I would release Mr. Davis at once; but it is a great national question. Mighty issues might be involved, and now is not the time to take such a step." "I think," continued the President, "I have the courage, or as you term it, ladies, pluck, to do my duty, and have proved it. When the proper times comes for the exercise of magnanimity, I trust that I shall not be found wanting."

In reference to the trial of Mr. Davis, Mr. Johnson said: "Almost every arrangement has been made for the trial of Mr. Davis, but no one can tell what changes may be brought about in the course of a few weeks. A hasty and injudicious action in this matter might produce incalculable misery. Mr. Davis has been a great leader in the war against the Government, and it is but right he should be tried by the laws of the land. I sympathize with him, in his sufferings. His quarters have been changed, and his condition ameliorated."

In conclusion, Mr. Johnson said: "All men, ladies, are under the influence of woman, and I not less than other men. You are my jewels. I want your help and your prayers."

No Knight of old, said one of the ladies, could have been more courtly in his defence nor more gentle in his refusal.

Protestant Episcopal Church.

At the recent session of the Council at Mobile, the following action was had.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL COUNCIL OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN REFERENCE TO RE-UNION WITH THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

WHEREAS, The several Dioceses, which we as Bishops and Deputies, represent at this Council, were impelled by political events to separate in a legislative capacity from the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, and did divide, on grounds sanctioned by Holy Scripture and primitive antiquity, to unite together and adopt for their better government and more convenient action, a constitution and code of canons, and did meet in pursuance of that Constitution in General Council in November, 1862. And

Whereas, This Church, so organized at the arising out of political events, was, from that time a duly organized branch of the Catholic and Apostolic Church, and may of right so continue to be, or may through the action of its several Diocesan Councils form any other synodical association; And

Whereas, In the opinion of several of the Dioceses which co-operated in the formation of this independent branch of the Church Catholic, the political exigency which reached its arrangement, no longer exists; And

Whereas, The spirit of charity which prevailed in the proceedings of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, at its late session in Philadelphia, has warmly commended itself to the hearts of this council: Therefore,

Resolved, 1st, That in the judgment of this council it is perfectly consistent with the good faith which she owes to the Bishops and Dioceses with which she has been in union since 1862, for any Diocese to decide for herself, whether she shall any longer continue in union with this council.

2d. That it be recommended that wherever the word Confederate occurs in the standards of the church the word United be substituted therefor.

3d. That inasmuch as the change recommended in the foregoing resolution (being a change in the prayer book,) cannot be legally completed until the next meeting of this council that under the circumstances it should in the meantime have the force of law, in any Diocese when approved by its Bishop and the Diocesan council.

4th. That each Diocese now in connection with this Council shall be governed by the Constitution and Canons thereof until such time as it shall have declared its withdrawal therefrom, as hereafter provided for.

5th. That whenever any Diocese shall determine to withdraw from the Ecclesiastical Confederation, such withdrawal shall be considered as duly accomplished when an official notice, signed by the Bishop and Secretary of such Diocese shall have been given to the Bishops of the Dioceses remaining in connexion with this Council.

STEPHEN ELLIOTT,
Ch'm'n of Com of House of Bishops.
C. W. ANDREWS,
Ch'm'n of Com. of House of Deputies.

The Committee to whom was referred the following joint resolution of the General Council, viz:

Resolved, That while we advise the change of the word 'Confederate' to 'United' wherever it occurs in the Prayer Book, we recommend that a joint committee be appointed by this Council to enter its solemn protest against those military orders by which Churches have been closed and clergymen ordered to be suspended from their functions because they could not use certain prayers under the dictation of military authority—do respectfully report, that

Whereas, The Bishop of Alabama was elected and consecrated under the Constitution and Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Confederate States, and never has been, nor is now, a Bishop of the Church in the United States, nor can be so in the judgment of that Church, as recently expressed in his case, unless and until he shall have made the required promise of conformity to the Constitution and Canons thereof; and

Whereas, For this reason he held that he was under no ecclesiastical obligation to use the prayer appointed in the Prayer Book of said Church for the President of the United States, and all others in civil authority; and

Whereas, The independence of the Church, in matters purely spiritual, is held to be of Divine authority, and has been the doctrine of the Church from the foundation of christianity, and is at this day conceded universally by the powers of this world, wherever the Church has been true to itself—

Therefore, we the members of this Council do, in our own behalf, and in behalf of the christian Church throughout the world, solemnly protest against the order issued September 20th, 1865, from the Headquarters of the Department of Alabama, that the Bishop and Clergy of that Diocese be suspended from their functions and forbidden to preach or perform Divine service, and that their places of worship be closed, and against all and every secular interference with ecclesiastical affairs, as a violation of liberty of consicence as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

"THE CONQUERED BANNER."

Written by a Confederate officer in prison, on hearing of the surrender of our armies.

Furl that banner, for 'tis weary
'Round its staff, 'tis drooping dreary
Furl it, furl it, it is best—
For there's not a man to wave it,
And there's not a sword to save it,
And there's not left one to lave it
In the blood that heroes gave it,
And its foes now scornful brave it.
Furl it, hide it, let it rest.

Take that banner down, 'tis tattered,
Broken is its staff and shattered,
And the valiant hosts are scattered,
Over whom it floated high.
Oh! 'tis hard for us to fold it,
Hard to think there's none to hold it,
Hard that those who once unrolled it,
Now must furl it with a sigh.

Furl that banner, furl it sadly,
Once six millions hailed it gladly,
And ten thousands wildly, madly
Swore it should forever wave,—
Swore that foeman's sword should never
Hearts entwined like theirs dissever,
And that flag should float forever
O'er their freedom, or their grave.

Furl it, for the hands that grasped it,
And the hearts that fondly clasped it,
Cold and dead are lying low,
And that banner, it is trailing
While around it sounds the wailing
Of its people in their woe.
For tho' conquered, they adore it,
Love the cold dead hands that bore it,
Weep for those that fell before it,
Pardon those who trailed and tore it.
And oh! wildly they deplore it
Now to furl and fold it so.

Furl that banner, true tis gory,
But 'tis wreathed around with glory,
And 'twill live in song and story,
Though its folds are in the dust.
For its fame, on brightest pages,
Praised by poets and by sages
Sha'l go sounding down the ages.

Furl its folds, for now we must.
Furl that banner softly, slowly,
Treat it gently, it is holy,
For it droops above the dead.
Touch it not, unfurl it never,
Let it droop there furled forever,
For its people's hopes are fled.

WANTED,

MISS IDA, Garysburg, N. C.

Nov.15-84-3t. Care of Gen. Parsons.

"The Watchman."

THE SUBSCRIBER PROPOSES TO COMMENCE in the City of New York, at an early date, the publication of a Weekly Journal, to take the highest practicable position in its line of Literature. Each number will consist of eight (8) large pages, with six (6) columns to each page, printed on excellent paper in a superior style of typography, and so folded that it may be bound.

It will discuss all the current topics of Religion, Sociology, Science, Literature, Art, Politics, Commerce, Finance and Agriculture, liberally, carefully, thoroughly, and from a platform far above all partizanship. While the entire control of the work will be in the hands of the Editor, he hopes to have a circulation which will enable him to secure in its several departments the best aid which America and Europe can afford.

Faithful to his own Denomination, he trusts that he is so well known in all the Churches for liberality, that any publication of his may unhesitatingly be sent into the families of any Christian community. It may be the mission of this Journal to make all Christians see one another in a lovelier light. The subscriber has an earnest desire, and will make a hearty effort, to produce such a publication that where a family can take only one paper, this will more nearly supply all its wants than any other. A Home Gazette, a Repertory of all the best current Literature, a Summary of all important Intelligence in every department of Human Effort, a Journal of Progress, an Advocate of Truth in all things, a Friend, a Guide, a Blessing—this is what "The Watchman" is intended to become.

The Editor has never been a partisan, and designs the discussion of politics in his journal to have to do mainly with its higher aspects and questions. The only desirable and permanent Union of States or of churches is a union upon the basis of an affectionate reception of fundamental, political, or moral and religious truths, with a hearty hatred of all certain error, and a generous absence of all fanaticism and strife in regard to what is not essential to political common weal or spiritual salvation. Into this happy unity the "Watchman" will labor to bring all within the reach of its influence.

This journal will afford a common meeting ground for Southern men of all views, and thus keep our people in one portion of the South informed of the sentiments and views of those in other parts. It will present to other sections of the United States a clear view of the animus of our people. It will thus secure the South justice and support without promoting sectionalism.

Many reasons unnecessary to state have led many influential persons to the belief that the interests of the South and of the whole country will be greatly promoted by issuing the publication from New York.

The price is put at $3 for the first six months or $1 for the first three months. No subscription received for less than three or more than six months. These terms allow one to subscribe for several copies for a short time, for general distribution. The first person who responded to a circular issued just before this prospectus, subscribed for 30 copies to distribute North and South. Write plainly the name, the post-office, the number of copies and the length of time, and address CHARLES F. DEEMS,

Box 130, Raleigh, N. C.

☞ Subscriptions in New York may be left for the present, at the office of the Southern Land Agency, No. 62 Broadway.

 Editors will confer a favor by giving this prospectus as many insertions as their convenience will allow and for the present sending their paper in exchange to "The Watchman," Raleigh, N. C.
